Enough Tory pragmatists resign whip to deny Tories a majority, or No Confidence Vote in new Government succeeds

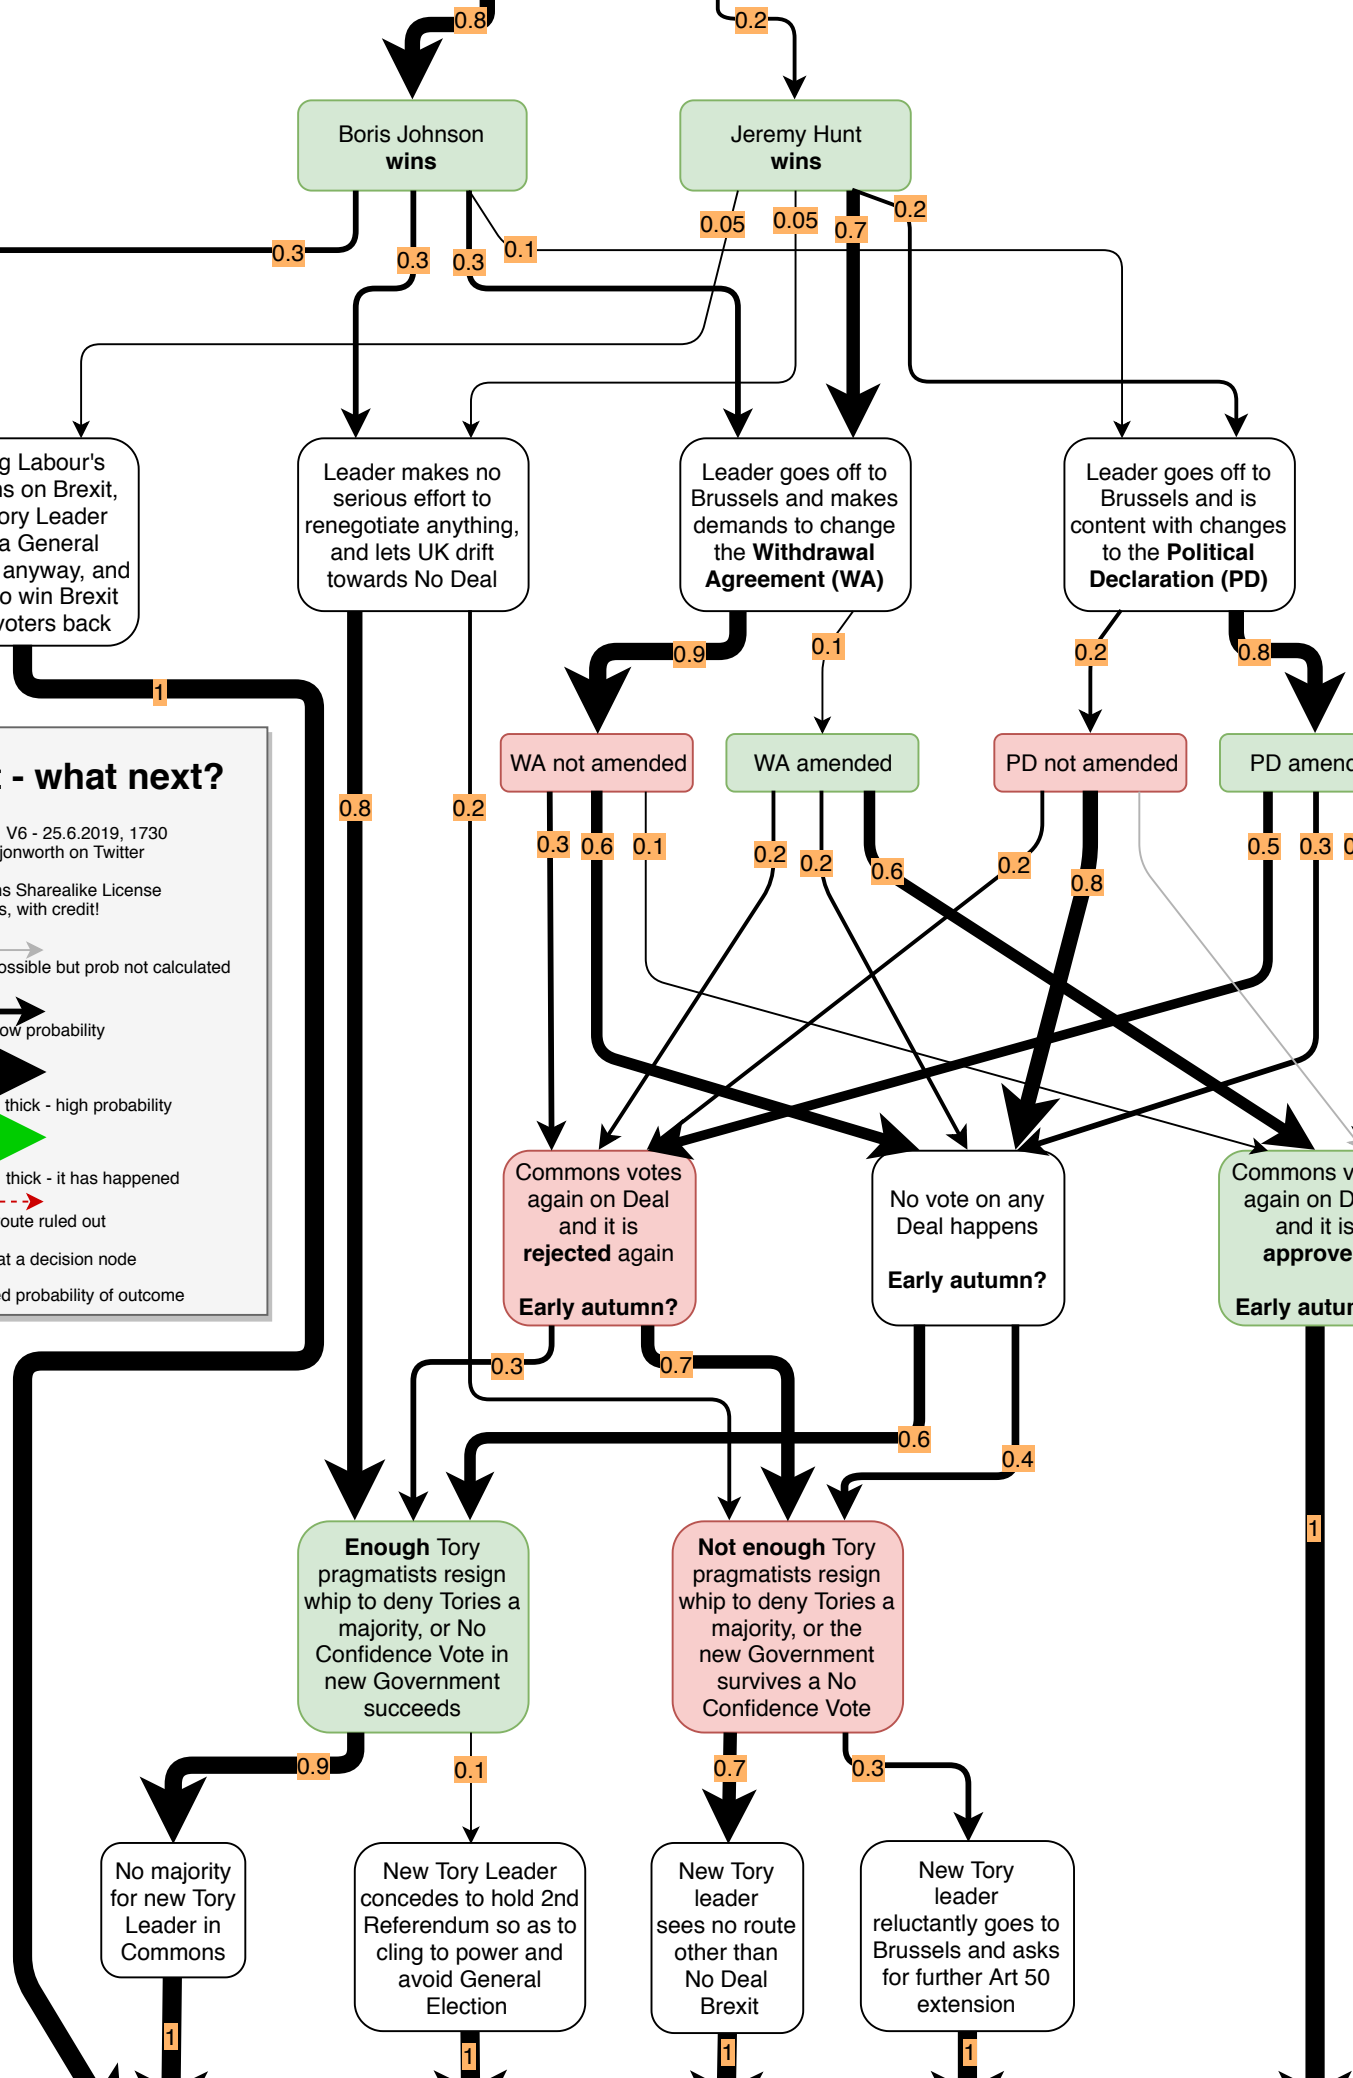

Not enough Tory pragmatists resign whip to deny Tories a majority, or the new Government survives a No Confidence Vote

No majority for new Tory Leader in Commons

New Tory Leader concedes to hold 2nd Referendum so as to cling to power and avoid General Election

New Tory leader sees no route other than No Deal Brexit

New Tory leader reluctantly goes to Brussels and asks for further Art 50 extension

UK heads for a General Election sometime before 31 Oct 2019
Chance: 61%

UK plans 2nd Referendum, needs extra time from EU to do this - referendum early 2020
Chance: 4%

No Deal Brexit looms on 31 October 2019 - Commons will seek to thwart this
Chance: 19%

Further extension to Article 50 period requested by UK
Chance: 8%

Brexit with a Deal happens legally but possibly after 31 October 2019
Chance: 8%

After Peterborough by-election still little shift in Labour's position - so this assumes Labour's position does not change

Labour could also promise a 2nd Referendum in a General Election manifesto?

A Tory General Election manifesto could demand a No Deal Brexit - and if Remain parties were not to unite this could prevail - too complex to add odds for this currently
